

Drug Offenses

New York State is notorious for having strict drug laws. Even what seem to be minor offenses can have adverse and long-term consequences. Western New Yorkers charged with possessing, distributing, or manufacturing controlled substances, such as marijuana, cocaine, heroin, or methamphetamine, could face fines, jail time, or imprisonment. Further, drug crime convictions could impair your ability to retain your job or obtain certain employment. Drug crime convictions could even impact your family, particularly in regard to child custody and visitation matters. 24 hours a day, 7 days a week
