

SSDI/SSI Appeals

The Social Security law attorneys at Tully Rinckey PLLC are experienced in fighting unfavorable decisions relating to Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits at the administrative and federal court levels. The Social Security Administration (SSA) has a multi-level appeals structure, and we can represent you through them all to help you obtain the most favorable decision possible.

What We Can Do for You

It is not uncommon for SSD or SSI applications to initially be denied. Don't take "No" for an answer. Call Tully Rinckey PLLC today to schedule your free initial consultation with an Social Security lawyer in Buffalo, N.Y. No matter what stage of the application or appeals process we begin representing you, you will not be billed until after you win your claim.

The federal government regulates our fees, and you will get paid before we do. So don't let financial concerns prevent you from calling Tully Rinckey PLLC to get an experienced Social Security law attorney on your side. Let us help you navigate the SSDI and SSI appellate processes, which include the following: Hearing:

An administrative law judge reviews the merits of your case.

Appeals Council:

A panel consisting of no less than two members of the Appeals Council reviews the administrative law judge's decision.

Federal Court:

Unfavorable Appeals Council decisions can be challenged by filing a civil lawsuit in federal court, which in the Buffalo area is usually the U.S. District Court for the Western District of New York.

Whether you are a disabled worker, a disabled widow or widower of a worker, or a disabled adult child in need of SSD benefits, or a blind or disabled individual in need of SSI benefits, the Social Security law attorneys at Tully Rinckey PLLC will aggressively fight for your rights.
