

Trusts

By executing a trust agreement, a person, referred to as a “grantor,” entrusts his or her property with someone known as a “trustee.” Under this legal relationship, the trustee must manage the property in accordance to the trust agreement. Sometimes trustees are directed to manage certain property for the benefit of the grantor’s spouse, children, grandchildren, or even his or her favorite charity. Other times, trustees are directed to manage certain property for tax or Medicaid eligibility purposes. How We Can Help

The estate planning attorneys at Tully Rinckey PLLC can prepare for you a variety of trust agreements. Call us today to schedule a free initial consultation to find out the type of trust that would best suit your needs and goals. We can prepare for you agreements for an “inter vivos” trust, which is established during your lifetime, or a “testamentary” trust, which is established after your death. The trust can be “revocable,” meaning it can be altered or cancelled, or it can be “irrevocable,” meaning it is unchangeable. Our trust offerings include, but are not limited to, the following: 2503(c) Minor’s Trust

A/B Trust

Charitable Remainder Trust

Charitable Lead Trust

Crummey Trust

Generation Skipping Trust (Dynasty Trust)

Medicaid trust

Special Needs Trust (Supplemental Needs Trust)

Uniform Transfers to Minors Act
