

Traffic Tickets

Shoving a traffic ticket in your glove box does not make the ticket disappear – it can actually lead to more serious charges. It is important to remember that in New York State, being issued a traffic ticket does not mean you are automatically guilty. Perhaps the officer mistook you for another motorist, or his or her equipment was used improperly, or he or she has no memory of the incident in question. With the help of an experienced lawyer, you can challenge a traffic ticket and possibly get it reduced or dismissed. New York State assigns “points” against a driver’s license for traffic violations and these violations can carry between two and 11 points. An excess of points can result in heavy fines, higher insurance costs, and even the loss of your driving privileges. Multiple speeding convictions within an 18 month span can also jeopardize your driving privileges. How We Can Help

Tully Rinckey PLLC’s experienced criminal defense team can represent you in court to help minimize the penalties you will face. If you are concerned about a traffic ticket, don’t simply try to forget about it – failure to respond to the ticket could result in the suspension of your driver’s license. If you are caught driving without a valid license, you could be arrested for aggravated operation of a motor vehicle. Call us today to schedule your FREE
