

Details So Far in Petraeus Sex Scandal Not Legally Damaging, But Could Trigger Punishment

Salacious details leaked by anonymous Washington sources about respected current and former generals embroiled in a sex scandal don't yet add up to anything legally damaging, military law experts told Stars and Stripes.

The CIA said Thursday it was investigating whether its former director, retired Gen. David Petraeus, misused agency resources to carry on an admitted affair. And the Pentagon Inspector General is combing through voluminous email conversations that the top U.S. general in Afghanistan, Gen. John Allen, engaged in with a married Tampa socialite for evidence of impropriety.

Unless connected to more weighty crimes like intelligence leaks or misuse of government assets, none of their reported actions so far would typically trigger a court-martial, they said.

Administrative punishment is another matter, however. Careers of rank-and-file officers regularly end over marital infidelity, which is viewed as something worse than a personal failing in the military, experts said.

"Adultery hurts good order and discipline and morale in units, which is why it's illegal," said Greg Rinckey, a former Army prosecutor who focuses on military law in private practice. "Imagine a soldier fighting in Afghanistan who gets a phone call, learns someone in another unit back home is [having an affair with] his wife – what does that do to him as an effective soldier?"

But Petraeus says he was out of the military by the time he had the affair with his biographer, and Allen has told his bosses at the Defense Department that he never had an affair. Pentagon investigators are combing through emails and documents from a two-year exchange that Allen carried on with Tampa socialite Jill Kelley.

"It's likely someone's going through each of the emails with a highlighter looking for any indication of misconduct," Rinckey said.

Even if cleared of adultery suspicions, the whispers could prevent Allen from moving to another top job, or even prompt some form of punishment, said Elizabeth Hillman, president of the National Institute of Military Justice and a law professor at the University of California Hastings College of Law.

At Allen's level, an appearance of impropriety could bring allegations of discrediting the military or of damaging good order and discipline, she said.

"Virtually anything can constitute a potential military crime, and even more likely, constitute an administrative action," she said.

Petraeus, the respected former U.S. top general in Iraq and Afghanistan, resigned last week as CIA director after an affair came to light that he said took place with his biographer, Army reservist Paula Broadwell, after he left the Army in 2011.

As a retired officer receiving a pension, Petraeus is subject to the Uniform Code of Military Justice, and he could technically be recalled for prosecution even for violations that took place when he was a civilian, experts said.

There have been a tiny number of such cases involving sexual matters, including Maj. Gen. David Hale's demotion and $10,000 fine in 1999 for having affairs with the wives of several subordinates. In 1957, retired Rear Adm. Selden Hooper was convicted of sodomy and other charges and stripped of veterans benefits and pay – a case that Hillman said haunted gay military retirees for decades.

But there's little chance such will happen to Petraeus, Hillman said.

"What would anyone gain by prosecuting him just because it possibly could be done?" she said. "He's a four-star general, and at that level, I think it would take a decision by the president to actually do it."

He managed my expectations and explained the process very thoroughly

“He took on this case with vigor and ZERO FEAR of the government!”

"LITERALLY THE BEST MONEY I EVER SPENT!!!! The USAF charged my son with Article 92, Violate General Order and Article 128, Simple Assault. I spoke to many attorneys who said to me, "Your son will be convicted of the Simple Assault because putting lotion on someone's face is considered an assault as it is an unwanted touch." They all wanted me to work on a plea deal with the government that ended with my son being discharged, spending time in the brig and having a federal conviction for the rest of his life. Knowing that this just didn't warrant a federal conviction, bad conduct discharge and time in the brig, I was on a search to find an attorney who would look at this case for what it was: a couple of 19-21 year-old immature young men horse playing. I was looking for someone who would say something different; someone who would be able to look at the case from more than one view. When I spoke to Mr. Rinckey, I thought I was going to get the same ole speech, but to my surprise, I IMMEDIATELY felt at ease and I knew right then that he was going to be my attorney (not sure if he knew it at this time). He took on this case with vigor and ZERO FEAR of the government! He wanted them to know that this was NOT going to go away with any plea deal! And he went to work! Then, LITERALLY 2 DAYS BEFORE trail the government added an additional charge, which was Article 134, Unlawful Entry. Mr. Rinckey stayed focused, developed a plan, and off to trail we went. He was so prepared, calm and at ease. I remember him saying to me, "I am ready to try this case." And yesterday – 14 APR 2016 – my son was found NOT GUILTY on ALL CHARGES AND SPECIFICATIONS!!! Yesss!!! You know, it's always hard to find money for an attorney, but I learned one thing with this case. Although I thought we couldn't afford an attorney, the truth of the matter was that we couldn't afford NOT TO HAVE an attorney. I only wish I had found Mr. Rinckey sooner, but that's okay. I have found my ATTORNEY for life," Y.W. on Founding Partner on Greg Rinckey, Esq.

“He attacked my matter with the determination, attentiveness and professionalism that I would expect”

"Attorney Anthony Kuhn was able to negotiate the dismissal of involuntary administrative separation proceedings against me and arrange for me to voluntarily retire. After a second GOMOR was permanently filed in my personnel file, the Army informed me that I was facing involuntary separation. After missing my window to rebut the proceedings, I called Anthony Kuhn for assistance and he assured me that he would do everything in his power to negotiate a dismissal and voluntary retirement. He attacked my matter with the determination, attentiveness and professionalism that I would expect from a seasoned attorney and fellow combative Veteran. He made it clear from the start that he was personally vested in my matter. As a Sergeant Major and former client, I enthusiastically and unequivocally recommend Attorney and Veteran Anthony Kuhn to any fellow service member or Veteran with a pending Military Law matter," P.W. on Attorney Anthony Kuhn

“Mr. Greiner's professional demeanor, intelligence, and attention to detail certainly made the difference”

"Anyone facing a life altering dilemma has two choices: give up or carry on. Mr. Greiner not only helped me carry on, but professionally fought for my wellbeing above and beyond what was required of him. He represented me in my Defense Office of Hearings and Appeals (DOHA) court hearing recently. Not only did Mr. Greiner take over my case on short notice, but quickly gathered and reviewed all necessary documentation and information. In addition he arranged to meet with me in person and go over all the facts. He provided me with sound professional advice on moving forward in resolving my case."I am an industrial security professional with over 15 years of experience in handling security matters for the government. My security clearance provides me the access required, and without it I would be unable to continue in my career. As a single mother of two children that is a frightening thought."Mr. Greiner's professional demeanor, intelligence, and attention to detail certainly made the difference in the final ruling of my case. I was particularly impressed with his ability to deflect opposing counsel's arguments or mitigate them altogether. His years of experience and expertise shined through not only in court, but also during follow up communications with additional documentation requested by the administrative judge. He was a pleasure to work with and I highly recommend him, and have, to those seeking legal navigation in security clearance matters. My security clearance was granted thanks to his efforts. In closing Mr. Greiner is not only an asset to Tully Rinckey law firm, but a leader in his field that exceeded my expectations," J.L. on Attorney Gregory F. Greiner, Esq.

“You reassured me that we were a team”

"Thank You.' The words seem so very simple, but they carry with them all my appreciation! Thank you so much for everything! I have and always will remember what you've done for me and how you've touched my professional career. I was very uncertain if I would be able to keep my security clearance to remain employed, but with your expertise and knowledge you helped me overcome a difficult battle. You reassured me that we were a team and that you would be with me every step of the way. What looked so dim became a bright light at the end of the Statement of Reasons you walked me through. I highly recommend Mr. Gregory Greiner to anyone who is looking for a true fighter in winning employment cases as complex as mine. P.S. Tully Rinckey does not leave you hanging, they work to win your case. Try them," V.H. on Attorney Gregory F. Greiner, Esq.
