

A Few More Questions and Answers About Nidal Hasan's Trial

By Mike Hashimoto Earlier today, before the Nidal Hasan guilty verdict, I tossed a few technical questions to the Tully Rinckey law firm in Washington for its expertise in military law. (That's the firm where retired Col. Lisa Marie Windsor practices; she helped set up the Hasan trial by doing a Q&A with us last month, just before testimony began.) Today, we were able to ask questions of managing partner Greg Rinckey, also a former Judge Advocate General Corps officer. Remember, these questions were posed before the panel reported its verdict, which was unanimous guilt on all 45 charges, including 13 charges of premeditated murder, from Hasan's Nov. 5, 2009, shooting rampage at Fort Hood. This makes Hasan eligible for the death penalty, something the military hasn't carried out in more than five decades. Our editorial off the guilty verdict, by the way, encourages the panel to deny Hasan the martyrdom he so clearly seeks by denying him the death penalty. I would respectfully disagree, of course. If the military is going to have a death penalty and doesn't apply it to a traitorous jihadist whose goal was to kill as many American soldiers as possible, there's no point in having a death penalty on the books. But that's just me. Here are our earlier today questions to Rinckey and his responses: Q.

Is the number of panelists, 12 or 13, significant? A

. A panel in this type of case needs at least 12 members. My assumption is 13 is what was left out of the pool after all challenges had been made. An odd number is generally more favorable to the defense when you need a two-thirds majority to convict, but in this case that wouldn't be a factor. Of course, in any case, the more people the government has to convince, the harder it is to get a conviction. Q.

The panel is voting now on guilt and, I presume, casting individual votes on each of the 45 charges. I know that it takes a unanimous guilty verdict on, I believe, two or more of the murder charges to make him eligible for death. My question is whether you expect the jury votes on guilt to wrap up today or extend into the weekend. A

. Yes, I would expect the jury to come to a conclusion today on guilt or innocence. Q

. After guilt is determined, there will be what I've seen described as a "trial within a trial" on punishment. So, in this case, the panel — not the judge — will determine the punishment, correct? And if it's not death, I'd assume there's a range of punishment (i.e., years in military prison), as in civilian trials. The panel, too, would make that determination, or would it be the judge? A.

The panel will make the determination on the penalty. Any sentence of 10 years or more and the votes have to be a minimum of 75 percent and the death penalty would have to be unanimous. Q.

If the punishment phase began later today, does the jury hear new presentations and more evidence from each side? If so, how long would you expect the punishment phase to go on? A

. I expect the punishment phase to last a few days. New material can be introduced, and the government will allow family members to discuss how the deaths impacted and even ruined their lives. This is a very emotional part of the trial, and the government will want to be careful to give victims closure and to make sure all pieces of evidence are submitted. This is the opportunity for the defense to mitigate the crimes as best they can. Maj. Nidal Hasan may bring up a mental health disorder that caused him to switch sides in the war. Or, he could use this opportunity to get on his soapbox and defend his actions. Other options open to Hasan include taking the stand in his own defense and or providing sworn or unsworn testimony. Regardless, the judge, Col. Tara Osborn, will give him more leeway during this phase than earlier in the trial. If she tries to rein him in too soon it could cause grounds for appeal.Q

. And last thing: Would it be typical or atypical for the judge to keep everyone at work Saturday and Sunday, or would you expect her to recess after today until Monday?A

. In military trials it is certainly not unusual for the judge to bring everyone back on a Saturday or Sunday for both the trial and punishment phase. Military are on duty 24 hours a day seven days a week, however, in my opinion the judge will not bring them back on the weekend. It is

“He took on this case with vigor and ZERO FEAR of the government!”

"LITERALLY THE BEST MONEY I EVER SPENT!!!! The USAF charged my son with Article 92, Violate General Order and Article 128, Simple Assault. I spoke to many attorneys who said to me, "Your son will be convicted of the Simple Assault because putting lotion on someone's face is considered an assault as it is an unwanted touch." They all wanted me to work on a plea deal with the government that ended with my son being discharged, spending time in the brig and having a federal conviction for the rest of his life. Knowing that this just didn't warrant a federal conviction, bad conduct discharge and time in the brig, I was on a search to find an attorney who would look at this case for what it was: a couple of 19-21 year-old immature young men horse playing. I was looking for someone who would say something different; someone who would be able to look at the case from more than one view. When I spoke to Mr. Rinckey, I thought I was going to get the same ole speech, but to my surprise, I IMMEDIATELY felt at ease and I knew right then that he was going to be my attorney (not sure if he knew it at this time). He took on this case with vigor and ZERO FEAR of the government! He wanted them to know that this was NOT going to go away with any plea deal! And he went to work! Then, LITERALLY 2 DAYS BEFORE trail the government added an additional charge, which was Article 134, Unlawful Entry. Mr. Rinckey stayed focused, developed a plan, and off to trail we went. He was so prepared, calm and at ease. I remember him saying to me, "I am ready to try this case." And yesterday – 14 APR 2016 – my son was found NOT GUILTY on ALL CHARGES AND SPECIFICATIONS!!! Yesss!!! You know, it's always hard to find money for an attorney, but I learned one thing with this case. Although I thought we couldn't afford an attorney, the truth of the matter was that we couldn't afford NOT TO HAVE an attorney. I only wish I had found Mr. Rinckey sooner, but that's okay. I have found my ATTORNEY for life," Y.W. on Founding Partner on Greg Rinckey, Esq.

“He attacked my matter with the determination, attentiveness and professionalism that I would expect”

"Attorney Anthony Kuhn was able to negotiate the dismissal of involuntary administrative separation proceedings against me and arrange for me to voluntarily retire. After a second GOMOR was permanently filed in my personnel file, the Army informed me that I was facing involuntary separation. After missing my window to rebut the proceedings, I called Anthony Kuhn for assistance and he assured me that he would do everything in his power to negotiate a dismissal and voluntary retirement. He attacked my matter with the determination, attentiveness and professionalism that I would expect from a seasoned attorney and fellow combative Veteran. He made it clear from the start that he was personally vested in my matter. As a Sergeant Major and former client, I enthusiastically and unequivocally recommend Attorney and Veteran Anthony Kuhn to any fellow service member or Veteran with a pending Military Law matter," P.W. on Attorney Anthony Kuhn

“Mr. Greiner's professional demeanor, intelligence, and attention to detail certainly made the difference”

"Anyone facing a life altering dilemma has two choices: give up or carry on. Mr. Greiner not only helped me carry on, but professionally fought for my wellbeing above and beyond what was required of him. He represented me in my Defense Office of Hearings and Appeals (DOHA) court hearing recently. Not only did Mr. Greiner take over my case on short notice, but quickly gathered and reviewed all necessary documentation and information. In addition he arranged to meet with me in person and go over all the facts. He provided me with sound professional advice on moving forward in resolving my case."I am an industrial security professional with over 15 years of experience in handling security matters for the government. My security clearance provides me the access required, and without it I would be unable to continue in my career. As a single mother of two children that is a frightening thought."Mr. Greiner's professional demeanor, intelligence, and attention to detail certainly made the difference in the final ruling of my case. I was particularly impressed with his ability to deflect opposing counsel's arguments or mitigate them altogether. His years of experience and expertise shined through not only in court, but also during follow up communications with additional documentation requested by the administrative judge. He was a pleasure to work with and I highly recommend him, and have, to those seeking legal navigation in security clearance matters. My security clearance was granted thanks to his efforts. In closing Mr. Greiner is not only an asset to Tully Rinckey law firm, but a leader in his field that exceeded my expectations," J.L. on Attorney Gregory F. Greiner, Esq.
